In particular, chlorinated 1,1,2-trichloroethane is a raw material for production of chlorinated propylene and the like and can be used as a monomer for manufacturing various synthetic resins and foundry muds. In addition, chlorinated 1,1,2-trichloroethane is a raw material for producing chlorinated propylene oxide which is an important raw material for making degradable resins and bio-plastic. Because of these, chlorinated 1,1,2-trichloroethane is expected to be used in a large amount in the near future. In addition, chlorine-containing organic compounds, more specifically, hydrocarbons containing chlorine have been utilized as raw materials for producing dichloromethane which is an important solvent. As a production method of chlorinated 1,1,2-trichloroethane, there is generally known a method for chlorinating 1,1,2-trichloroethane in the presence of chlorine gas. The product chlorinated 1,1,2-trichloroethane of the above-mentioned method is obtained in the form of an aqueous solution. Such chlorinated 1,1,2-trichloroethane aqueous solution is washed with water to obtain a desired product chlorinated 1,1,2-trichloroethane. However, chlorinated 1,1,2-trichloroethane in the form of aqueous solution is not so easy to handle. Thus, for example, it is required to dilute the chlorinated 1,1,2-trichloroethane aqueous solution with water for a drying process of
