Q: Return NULL values in view model from stored procedure I have a stored procedure that returns a table. Currently it returns only rows that pass a criteria, which works. I want to change the sp to return NULL if any of the results are not satified. I've got a ViewModel, which maps the db rows to a view, the sp, the view and a view model. The sp and view use a temporary table to store the results. How can I return NULL in the vm or even in the sp? Public class ViewVm Inherits DataContextViewModelBase
