Consumers Union, as CR is known, began in 1915 as a group of 300 consumers founded by educator Will R. Wurtele, who became editor-in-chief. In 2017, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration said that consumer reports ranked top of the 2016 government rankings. Consumer Reports in 2016 won the Better Business Bureau's seal of approval as an A plus. Consumer Reports is a non-profit membership organization. According to Article 5.3, Section 1 (C), of its bylaws, the purpose of the organization is: "To advance the cause of truth in journalism, to encourage practices leading to the popular diffusion of accurate and useful information on consumer products and services and on the economy, and to participate in civic affairs". Consumer Reports is a member of Independent Press Standards Organization (IPSO), which sets and enforces standards for proper journalistic practices. Consumer Reports membership is open to individuals and institutions. It does not accept advertising or product or services donations. In May 2000, the organization's board of directors placed founding editor Will R. Wurtele on probation after an internal investigation found that in 1977 and 1978, Wurtele had falsely attributed a book to another writer. His criticism of the industry trade group, the American Association of Advertising Agencies, was reported by CR in 1970 and 1971. Consumer Reports receives funding from the United States government, and is owned by Consumers Union, Inc. It is a nonprofit organization, with income from advertising, membership dues, and donations. Board members include several academics, and consumer advocate Howard W. Hunter. History The first issue of Consumer Reports, with the cover date July 1915, was mailed on July 15 to 34,000,000 homes in the United States. The first subscribers and advertisers were the 200,000 Sears Catalog Homes subscribers. The first national advertising of CR was by Sears, Roebuck and Company, a subsidiary of Sears, Roebuck and Company. In 1925, CR was formally incorporated in New York by publisher Harry Davis, Jr., and it established its current headquarters in

Gems for Ashwathama A very dear friend of mine Gemmae Opal Amboriansmith is gone on her sixteenth birthday. She felt the need to start this blog for herself, her friends and her community to pay tribute to the person she lost. Amboriansmith's Final Blog In 2010 I was diagnosed with a genetically inherited heart condition at 19 years old. For the next five years I endured endless tests at numerous hospitals, endless counseling with my cardiologist and endless blood pressure medication. In February of 2014 my heart attack occurred. I left my mother's home early on the morning of February 21, 2014. I was to speak at the school district's pre-kindergarten graduation at 10:00 am. However, in the middle of the night I realized I was not feeling well. I went to the bathroom and found a lump in my breast. I called 911 and was transported to the Hospital by my brother, Sean.. After having a CT scan, my doctors found a very large lump on my left breast and then sent me for a biopsy. I was lucky because, being a private practice, I was seen within an hour of the biopsy. Later that day I found out I had breast cancer on my left breast. I had an appointment the next day with the oncologist and our oncoplastic surgeon.On February 25 I had open-heart surgery and breast surgery. On February 26 I received two more TAT levels and then was ready to start chemotherapy. The chemotherapy lasted 4 months. Now I am currently in an ongoing weekly treatment until the end of March. My current oncologist is Dr. Prudie Lin, my surgery was with Dr. Anurag Kumar at Wexford Medical Center in Savannah and my follow-up was at URMC in Augusta. The care for me was amazing. The nurses were nice, caring, and kept in contact with my family about my blood test results and other things. They delivered my chemo in a timely fashion and also were very friendly and not very overbearing. My breast surgeons, Drs. Anurag Kumar and Prudie Lin were awesome and made me feel so comfortable. They, along with my dietitian, Laura, went the extra mile to make sure I was getting the best care possible. I thank all of them for the wonderful job they did for me. They treated me with so much compassion and care. My cardiologist at Wexford, Dr. Christa
